At AI Impact Summit, India pushes inclusive tech agenda while courting global investment and influence

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

India this week sought to cement its role in shaping the future of artificial intelligence, as Prime Minister Narendra Modi positioned the country as both an innovation hub and a voice for the developing world at the India AI Impact Summit.

Speaking on Thursday at the gathering of about 20 world leaders and leading technology executives, Modi called for artificial intelligence that is inclusive, accountable and globally accessible. Among those attending were Emmanuel Macron, António Guterres, Sundar Pichai, Sam Altman and Dario Amodei. Guterres urged the creation of a three-billion-dollar fund to help lower income nations build artificial intelligence capacity, warning that the technology's future should not be shaped by a handful of countries or corporations.

Global firms highlighted major investments in India's digital and cloud infrastructure, reinforcing the country's position as one of the fastest growing internet markets, with nearly one billion users. India promoted voluntary New Delhi Frontier AI Commitments aimed at responsible and multilingual AI development and showcased domestic platforms built on its digital identity and payments systems.

The summit, which opened Monday, was not without controversy. On Wednesday, a private university was removed after presenting a Chinese made robotic dog as its own invention. Road closures for VIP movements led to heavy traffic disruptions across the capital.

On Thursday, Microsoft co-founder

Bill Gates withdrew from a planned keynote address. The Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation said the decision was intended to keep the focus on the summit's priorities. Nvidia chief executive Jensen Huang also canceled his appearance.

Despite the logistical setbacks, Indian officials said the summit underscored the country's ambition to act as a bridge between advanced economies and the Global South in setting global norms for artificial intelligence.

Jaishankar and Canadian foreign minister highlight growing partnership at Munich Security Conference

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

India's External Affairs Minister Subrahmanyam Jaishankar and Canadian Foreign Minister Anita Anand met on Sunday on the sidelines of the Munich Security Conference, signaling continued momentum in relations between the two countries.

The meeting marked their fifth since September 2025 and reflected efforts to strengthen cooperation after a period of diplomatic strain. According to Canada's government, the ministers reviewed progress under a joint road map announced in October 2025 and discussed expanding collaboration in energy, trade, technology, and critical minerals. They also emphasized opportunities in artificial intelligence and clean energy, underscoring India's growing role as a major global economy.

The talks come ahead of a planned visit to India by Prime Minister Mark Carney in early March, when agreements covering uranium, energy, critical minerals, and artificial intelligence are expected to be finalized.

He pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit murder for hire and money laundering conspiracy. Sentencing is scheduled for Thursday, May 29. He faces a maximum of 40 years in prison and likely removal from the United States.

World Bank backs India rooftop solar push with $198 million guarantee

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The World Bank Group on Tuesday approved a $197.67 million guarantee to support India’s rooftop solar expansion, backing the refinancing of a $500 million loan to the State Bank of India for grid connected solar systems serving commercial and industrial users.

The guarantee was issued by the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency to Citibank for its loan to SBI. The program has already delivered 1,004 megawatts of rooftop solar installations.

India aims to reach net zero by 2070 and requires an estimated $160 billion to $300 billion annually for its clean energy transition. Officials said the deal lowers borrowing costs and mobilizes private capital for renewable growth.

Sanders and Newsom divided over proposed California billionaires tax

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

A proposed California ballot measure to impose a one-time 5 percent tax on the assets of billionaires has exposed divisions among leading Democrats ahead of the fall midterm elections. Bernie Sanders traveled to Los Angeles on Wednesday to rally support for the initiative, which is backed by a major health care union and aims to offset federal health funding cuts signed last year by President Donald Trump.

The measure would tax assets such as stocks, art and businesses. California Governor Gavin Newsom opposes the proposal, warning it could destabilize state finances and drive wealthy residents out of the state. Supporters must gather more than 870,000 signatures to qualify it for the November ballot. Sanders argued the tax would address extreme wealth inequality and could serve as a national model.

Prince Andrew released under investigation after arrest in Epstein fallout

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Prince Andrew, now known as Andrew Mountbatten-Windsor, was arrested on Thursday in Norfolk on suspicion of misconduct in public office following fresh scrutiny over his links to Jeffrey Epstein. Thames Valley Police said the man in his 60s was released 11 hours later under investigation, meaning he has not been charged.

The arrest, described as routine procedure with prior notice to the Home Office, marks the first detention of a senior royal in centuries. Authorities are examining claims that while serving as United Kingdom trade envoy in 2010, he shared confidential material with Epstein.

Police searched addresses in Berkshire and Norfolk. King Charles III said the law must take its course. Mountbatten-Windsor denies wrongdoing.

Trump seeks to expand ‘Board of Peace’ authority beyond Gaza and elevate it above United Nations

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

President Donald Trump said Thursday that his newly formed ‘Board of Peace’ should expand beyond its Gaza ceasefire mandate and act as a body that oversees the United Nations. Speaking at the group’s first meeting at UN headquarters in New York, he said the board would be “looking over the United Nations and making sure it runs properly.”

UN spokesperson Stéphane Dujarric responded by citing the UN Charter, stressing that member states, through the General Assembly and Security Council, oversee the organization. Trump acknowledged the Security Council’s limited endorsement of the board for Gaza reconstruction but said it could take on “numerous other things.” He also pledged financial support to the UN, which is facing a $4 billion shortfall from unpaid US dues, but did not confirm when payments would be released.

Iran and Russia hold naval drill as Trump signals possible strike timeline

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Iran and Russia conducted joint naval exercises in the Gulf of Oman and the northern Indian Ocean this week, as President Donald Trump warned Thursday that Tehran has 10 to 15 days to reach a nuclear deal or face consequences. Iranian and Russian special forces simulated freeing a hijacked vessel, with Iran deploying the Alvand destroyer, missile ships, helicopters, and fast attack craft.

The drill followed earlier exercises by Iran’s Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps in the Strait of Hormuz, which included a temporary closure of the waterway. Meanwhile, the United States has reinforced the region with the USS Gerald R. Ford joining the USS Abraham Lincoln strike group. Indirect nuclear talks in Geneva on Tuesday were described as constructive, though major differences remain.

Moscow backs Havana as Cuba’s energy crisis deepens under US pressure

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

President Vladimir Putin met Cuban Foreign Minister Bruno Rodríguez Parrilla in Moscow on Wednesday and reaffirmed Russia’s support for Cuba as it grappled with blackouts and fuel shortages tied to a tightened United States oil embargo. Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov urged Washington to avoid imposing a sea blockade, saying most countries opposed further escalation. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said Russia would expand economic cooperation and consider humanitarian fuel supplies. Venezuela and Mexico halted oil shipments to Cuba in January after tariff threats from President Donald Trump, worsening the island’s energy crunch.

Rubio urges Europe to rebuild military and economic strength in Munich address

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

U.S. Secretary of State Marco Rubio told leaders at the Munich Security Conference on Saturday that Europe must reverse decades of complacency since the Cold War. He argued that high welfare spending, deindustrialization, climate driven energy policies, and mass migration weakened Western competitiveness. Rubio called for stronger defense budgets and greater economic sovereignty while reaffirming the transatlantic alliance. European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen welcomed his commitment to cooperation, though some officials challenged his critique. Observers said the speech reflected President Donald Trump’s priorities but struck a more diplomatic tone.

Trump presses for swift Ukraine deal ahead of third round of Geneva talks

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

President Donald Trump said Sunday that Ukraine must move quickly toward an agreement with Russia as delegations prepared to meet Monday in Geneva for a third round of peace talks. Russia controls roughly 20 percent of Ukraine’s pre 2014 territory, including Crimea, annexed in 2014. Moscow has demanded additional territorial concessions, which Kyiv has rejected. President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said security guarantees must precede any settlement and warned against compromises that would let Russia regroup. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said broader territorial questions would be central to discussions.

Trump family seeks trademark protection for airports bearing president's name

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The Trump Organization has filed trademark applications with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office seeking exclusive rights to use President Donald Trump's name for airports and related services, including passenger buses, travel bags and flight suits. The filings follow debate in Florida over a state bill proposing to rename Palm Beach International Airport, located near Mar-a-Lago, after the president.

A company unit, DTTM Operations, applied to trademark three names: President Donald J. Trump International Airport, Donald J. Trump International Airport and DJT. The company said the move was prompted by the Florida legislation and described it as protection against misuse of the Trump name, adding that neither the president nor his family would receive royalties from the proposed renaming. Trademark lawyer Josh Gerben called the filings unprecedented for a sitting president's private company.

Trump outlines $36 billion in Japanese projects tied to broader $550 billion trade pledge

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

President Donald Trump announced Monday that Japan would launch three major projects worth $36 billion under a wider $550 billion trade commitment to the United States. The first phase includes a 9.2 gigawatt natural gas power facility in Ohio, a deep water crude export project near Texas expected to generate $20 billion to $30 billion annually, and a synthetic diamond plant in Georgia. Commerce Secretary Howard Lutnick said the investments would strengthen energy and manufacturing capacity. Trump said tariffs helped secure the agreement and reduce dependence on foreign supply chains.

US points to 2020 seismic data as evidence of suspected Chinese nuclear test

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

A senior State Department official said Monday that new seismic analysis supported claims China conducted an underground nuclear test in June 2020 near Lop Nur. Assistant Secretary Christopher Yeaw said data recorded in Kazakhstan showed a magnitude 2.75 explosion about 450 miles from the site, inconsistent with natural seismic activity. The Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty Organization said the two minor events detected did not meet its confidence threshold. China denied conducting any test. Both the United States and China have signed but not ratified the Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban Treaty.

Zuckerberg testifies in trial over youth social media addiction claims

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Mark Zuckerberg faced questioning in a Los Angeles courtroom on Wednesday in a civil trial alleging that platforms operated by Meta Platforms and YouTube are addictive and harmful to minors. The lawsuit, brought by a plaintiff identified as KGM, claims she became addicted after beginning to use Instagram at age nine and suffered mental health harm.

Zuckerberg said children under 13 are not permitted on Instagram but acknowledged that enforcing age limits is challenging when users misrepresent their age. He said time spent on the app is used as a benchmark against competitors, not simply to increase usage. The trial, which began in late January, could influence thousands of similar cases. TikTok and Snapchat settled before proceedings began.

Former South Korean President sentenced to life for martial law decree

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Yoon Suk Yeol was found guilty of insurrection on Thursday and sentenced to life in prison over his 2024 declaration of martial law. A three judge panel at Seoul Central District Court ruled that Yoon subverted the constitutional order by ordering troops to enter parliament and arrest political opponents, including current president Lee Jae Myung.

Prosecutors had sought the death penalty. Yoon, 65, denied wrongdoing and can appeal. The crisis began in December 2024 when he suspended civilian rule, but lawmakers overturned the order within hours. He was impeached days later and arrested in January 2025, becoming the first sitting South Korean president to be detained. Former Defense Minister Kim Yong-hyun received 30 years. The ruling underscores South Korea's democratic resilience amid deep political divisions.

United States reinforces Middle East forces as Iran talks continue

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The United States is deploying additional warships, air defenses and submarines to the Middle East as President Donald Trump weighs possible military action against Iran, even as diplomatic talks continue. Officials said forces required for potential action could be in place by mid March.

The aircraft carrier USS Gerald R. Ford is sailing to join the USS Abraham Lincoln strike group, alongside destroyers and a nuclear submarine. Indirect talks in Geneva between Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi and United States envoy Steve Witkoff showed limited progress, according to the White House.

Iran has warned it could block the Strait of Hormuz if attacked. President Donald Trump has said diplomacy is his first option but has not ruled out strikes targeting nuclear and missile facilities.

European lawmakers warn Congress that EU speech rules could affect Americans online

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Finnish lawmaker Paivi Rasanen told the House Judiciary Committee last week that Europe's expanding speech laws could indirectly restrict Americans, despite First Amendment protections. Rasanen has faced prosecution since 2021 for quoting Bible verses in posts criticizing her church's participation in a Pride march. Although acquitted by lower courts, prosecutors appealed to Finland's Supreme Court. Irish writer Graham Linehan also testified, describing past police action over his views. A February 3 committee report titled "The Foreign Censorship Threat" alleged that the European Commission pressured technology companies to adopt global moderation policies under the Digital Services Act. Committee chair Jim Jordan said subpoenaed communications showed European regulators influencing platform rules affecting American users.

From digital public infrastructure to global boardrooms, India asserts leadership in shaping the future of artificial intelligence

Dr. Avi Verma

The recently concluded AI Summit in India marks a defining milestone not only for the nation but for the global technology ecosystem. With participation from over 80 countries and the presence of leading AI scientists, policymakers, innovators, and industry captains, the summit stands as a testament to India’s growing stature as a global technology powerhouse. The scale, substance, and strategic direction of the event reflect a remarkable achievement of the Government of India under the leadership of Narendra Modi.

This summit was not merely a congregation of experts—it was a statement. A statement that India is no longer just a participant in the global AI conversation, but a principal architect shaping its future. The deliberations spanned critical domains: ethical AI frameworks, governance standards, cross-border collaboration, AI for public good, cybersecurity, semiconductor ecosystems, startups, skilling, and inclusive digital growth. By bringing together nations from across continents, India positioned itself as a neutral, trusted, and forward-looking platform for dialogue on responsible AI innovation.

One of the summit’s most significant achievements was its emphasis on “AI for All.” India’s approach underscored the need to democratize artificial intelligence—ensuring it empowers agriculture, healthcare, education, climate action, and governance, rather than deepening inequality. This inclusive philosophy resonated strongly with developing nations, many of whom look to India as a model for scalable digital public infrastructure.

The event also highlighted India’s rapidly expanding AI ecosystem—driven by a vibrant startup culture, world-class engineering talent, progressive policy frameworks, and an increasingly innovation-friendly regulatory environment. The government’s proactive initiatives in digital infrastructure, data governance, and research funding have laid the foundation for India to become a global AI hub.

Equally noteworthy is the extraordinary impact of Indian-origin technology leaders on the global stage. Indian-origin executives are now a defining force in corporate America. Leaders such as Satya Nadella of Microsoft, Sundar Pichai of Alphabet Inc., Leena Nair of Chanel, and Raj Subramaniam of FedEx helm Fortune 500 giants with a combined market value exceeding $6.5 trillion. What was once a rarity has become a defining trend—Indian CEOs now lead 11 Fortune 500 companies.

Research by leadership advisory firm ghSMART, which analyzed 30,000 global executives, reveals that Indian-origin CEOs are five times more likely to take calculated risks, six times more likely to embrace challenges, and three times more resilient than their peers—traits indispensable in volatile and transformative markets.

Experts attribute this remarkable rise to India’s fiercely competitive education pipeline—particularly elite institutions such as the Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs)—combined with an adaptability forged by navigating new cultures and markets. From technical experts to global strategists, these leaders have mastered execution, resilience, and reinvention. Migration, for many, became not a hurdle but a management advantage.

The AI Summit in India thus represents more than diplomatic success; it symbolizes intellectual confidence. It reflects a nation whose talent leads global boardrooms, whose engineers build foundational technologies, and whose policymakers are shaping the ethical contours of artificial intelligence.

The Government of India deserves commendation for orchestrating an event of such magnitude and consequence. Hosting 80+ nations in meaningful dialogue demonstrates diplomatic maturity, technological ambition, and administrative excellence. The summit has strengthened India’s voice in global AI governance and reinforced its role as a bridge between advanced and emerging economies.

As artificial intelligence reshapes industries, economies, and societies, India stands at the forefront—not only as a talent reservoir but as a responsible global leader. The success of this summit is both a celebration of achievement and a promise of what lies ahead.

We extend our heartfelt congratulations to the Government of India for delivering a truly historic and impactful AI Summit—one that will be remembered as a turning point in the global AI narrative.

Best Regards,

Twelve killed in firecracker store blast in China during Lunar New Year

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Twelve people were killed on Wednesday after a firecracker shop exploded and caught fire in Xiangyang, Hubei province, according to state broadcaster China Central Television. Authorities said the cause of the blast remains under investigation.

Video verified by Reuters showed thick black smoke pouring from a low rise building. The explosion occurred during Lunar New Year celebrations, when fireworks are widely used across China despite safety concerns.

Such incidents are not uncommon. In June, nine people were killed and 26 injured in a fireworks factory explosion in neighboring Hunan province. While some cities have imposed bans over pollution and safety risks, firecrackers remain a traditional part of holiday festivities meant to ward off evil spirits.

Eleven detained in France over killing of far right activist

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

French authorities detained 11 people, including an aide to a lawmaker from La France Insoumise, over the fatal beating of 23 year old far right activist Quentin Deranque in Lyon on Saturday. Prosecutors have opened a murder investigation. Deranque was attacked outside a conference where European Parliament member Rima Hassan was speaking. Videos of the confrontation circulated widely online. The aide to lawmaker Raphael Arnault has suspended parliamentary duties pending the inquiry.

The party condemned the killing, while Jordan Bardella of the National Rally accused the hard left of fostering violence. The incident has intensified tensions ahead of upcoming local and presidential elections in an already polarized political climate.

Afghan migrants report forced returns from Pakistan ahead of Ramadan

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Afghan migrants have reported an increase in forced deportations from Pakistan through the Torkham crossing ahead of Ramadan, local officials said Tuesday. Returnees described police raids, electricity cuts, blocked mobile services and demolition of shops. One deportee said he left behind decades of property and savings.

Authorities in Nangarhar said around 800 families are returning daily and assistance is being provided. Refugees earlier urged Pakistan to allow a phased return over three months.

Rights activists warned that rapid expulsions risk worsening Afghanistan's humanitarian crisis and called for voluntary, orderly repatriation in line with international refugee principles.

United States panel told India-China rivalry remains structural despite easing of border tensions

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

India's strategic rivalry with China remains entrenched despite last year's partial disengagement along their disputed frontier, experts told the United States China Economic and Security Review Commission on Tuesday.

Testifying before the bipartisan congressional body, analysts said the October 2024 pullback along the Line of Actual Control reduced immediate risks of confrontation but did not alter the broader military balance, which they said continues to favor China. The frontier remains heavily militarized, with Beijing advancing infrastructure in Tibet and across contested sectors.

Witnesses warned that flashpoints, including a potential succession crisis involving the Dalai Lama, could trigger renewed escalation. They also pointed to China's expanding presence in South Asia and the Indian Ocean, as well as India's reliance on Chinese pharmaceutical supply chains. Several experts stressed that closer United States India cooperation in defense and critical technologies will be central to balancing China's regional influence.

Belgium summons United States ambassador over antisemitism accusation

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Belgium summoned the United States ambassador on Tuesday after Bill White accused the country of antisemitic prosecution linked to an investigation in Antwerp. Foreign Minister Maxime Prévot called the claim dangerous disinformation and said diplomats must respect Belgium's institutions and judicial independence.

Belgian authorities are examining whether three men performed ritual circumcisions without certified medical training. White described the probe as harassment of the Jewish community and urged legal protections for religious officiants known as mohels.

Prévot responded that Belgian law permits ritual circumcision when conducted by qualified physicians under strict health and safety standards and declined to comment further on the ongoing investigation.

Debate grows within Sikh community over Canadian MPs' remarks on immigration bills

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Remarks made by Sikh members of Parliament in Canada's House of Commons have sparked debate within Sikh communities in Canada and abroad, according to a report published Tuesday by Khalsa Vox. Critics allege some MPs framed two immigration and border bills as preventing criminals from seeking asylum, although the legislation primarily addresses border procedures and administrative reforms. The report said Sikh lawmakers carry dual responsibilities as national representatives and community symbols rooted in values of service and truth. It noted that immigration debates resonate deeply due to Sikh refugee history and concerns over crime affecting Punjabi Canadians, stressing that accuracy in public statements is vital to maintaining trust.

Peru's interim president removed after four months amid corruption scandal

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Peru's Congress voted Tuesday to remove interim president José Jerí in what lawmakers described as an express impeachment following allegations over undisclosed meetings with Chinese businessmen.

The vote passed 75 to 24 after security footage showed Jerí at off agenda meetings linked to influence peddling investigations. Prosecutors have opened inquiries involving businessman Yang Zhihua and others.

Jerí denied wrongdoing. Lawmakers are expected to select a replacement this week, just months before April elections. The political upheaval comes amid diplomatic tensions between the United States and China over investment in Peru's Chinese majority owned Chancay port.

Nepal monarchy debate resurfaces as former king urges election postponement amid political unrest

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Former King Gyanendra Shah on Wednesday called for postponing Nepal's upcoming parliamentary elections, warning that voting amid widespread dissatisfaction could deepen instability. Shah, removed from power in 2008 when Nepal became a republic, questioned the legitimacy of the interim government overseeing the March 5 polls. Elections were scheduled after former Prime Minister Khadga Prasad Sharma Oli resigned in September following protests by young demonstrators alleging corruption and nepotism. A minister described Shah's remarks as objectionable and said the government remains committed to holding the vote despite growing pro monarchy rallies.

NIH director to serve as acting CDC chief after leadership shakeup

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Dr. Jay Bhattacharya will serve as acting director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, administration officials said on Tuesday, following the departure of Jim O Neill last week. Bhattacharya, who leads the National Institutes of Health, will hold the role until a permanent nominee is confirmed. O Neill had been acting director after the removal of Susan Monarez. The leadership changes come amid debate over revised federal vaccine recommendations, including scaling back routine guidance for some childhood and coronavirus shots. A federal judge signaled last week he may block the updated schedule.

States sue Trump administration over withheld clean energy funds

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

California and 12 other states filed a lawsuit on Wednesday seeking to force the federal government to release congressionally approved funding for clean energy projects. The suit challenges the Trump administration’s termination of grants authorized under environmental laws, including the Inflation Reduction Act, as part of a broader push to scale back support for wind, solar, and other fossil free energy sources while promoting oil production. California Attorney General Rob Bonta said the state lost 1.2 billion dollars for the Alliance for Renewable Clean Hydrogen Energy Systems project. The complaint names the United States Department of Energy among the defendants. States including Colorado, New York, Oregon, and Washington joined the lawsuit.

White House says Trump has not held direct shutdown talks with Democrats

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The White House said on Wednesday that President Donald Trump has not recently held direct talks with Democratic lawmakers about averting a potential government shutdown. Press Secretary Karoline Leavitt made the statement as funding negotiations continue in Congress. Lawmakers face pressure to reach an agreement to keep the federal government operating, but no direct discussions between the president and Democratic leaders have taken place in recent days, according to the White House. The comments come amid ongoing partisan divisions over spending priorities and budget measures needed to prevent a lapse in federal funding.

Trump campaigns in Georgia amid renewed focus on economy and election claims

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

President Donald Trump traveled to Georgia on Thursday in a visit aimed at energizing Republicans ahead of the midterm elections. The White House said he focused his remarks on lowering costs and improving economic conditions for working families, even as his administration weighed possible military action against Iran, continued an aggressive immigration crackdown, and explored changes to federal oversight of elections.

Trump appeared in a strongly Republican district formerly represented by Marjorie Taylor Greene, who resigned in January after a public feud with him. A special election to replace her is scheduled for March 10, with early voting already underway. Trump endorsed district attorney Clay Fuller, while former state Senator Colton Moore and Democrat Shawn Harris also ran. The visit followed a recent federal seizure of voting records in Fulton County. On Wednesday, Trump repeated false claims that the 2020 election was stolen, despite audits and court rulings finding no evidence of widespread fraud.

Federal judge vacates immigration board ruling backing Trump detention policy

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

A federal judge this week threw out a decision by the Board of Immigration Appeals that endorsed the Trump administration’s policy requiring mandatory detention for thousands of migrants arrested during its immigration crackdown. United States District Judge Sunshine Sykes in Riverside, California, said the administration failed to comply with her December ruling that found the policy unlawful because it denied detainees the chance to seek release on bond.

The nationwide class action decision prevents immigration judges from relying on the board’s September ruling, which adopted the administration’s view that some noncitizens already living in the United States could be treated as applicants for admission. Sykes criticized the administration’s conduct and accused officials of continuing to deny bond hearings despite her earlier order. The United States Department of Homeland Security and the United States Department of Justice did not immediately comment.

Federal judge bars ICE from re detaining Kilmar Abrego Garcia

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

A federal judge on Monday barred United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement from re detaining Kilmar Abrego Garcia, a Salvadoran national facing federal smuggling charges. Judge Paula Xinis ruled the government has not shown it can remove him in the reasonably foreseeable future and converted a temporary restraining order into an injunction. Abrego Garcia was deported to El Salvador in 2025 and later returned after court orders, including one from the Supreme Court. He denies allegations that he is a member of MS 13. The United States Department of Homeland Security has described him as a gang member.

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed an emergency motion on Saturday asking a federal court to restrict how the government may use 2020 election records seized in Fulton County, Georgia. The Federal Bureau of Investigation removed about 700 boxes of ballots, tabulator tapes, ballot images and voter rolls from a county facility in late January as part of a criminal probe. The motion seeks limits on use of the data outside that investigation and demands disclosure of who has accessed the records, citing voter privacy and constitutional concerns. County officials have separately sued for the records’ return.

Lawsuits challenge Trump administration plan for new Alaska oil lease sale

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Conservation groups and an Inupiat organization filed lawsuits on Tuesday challenging the Trump administration’s plan to expand drilling in the National Petroleum Reserve-Alaska and hold a lease sale next month. One suit, brought in Alaska by Earthjustice for environmental groups, and another filed in Washington, District of Columbia, argue the sale improperly includes protected areas near Teshekpuk Lake and the Colville River. The plan would open about 80 percent of the reserve to leasing under a law requiring at least five sales over 10 years. Defendants include the United States Department of the Interior and the Bureau of Land Management.

Education Department investigates Portland schools over race-based program

● IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The United States Department of Education said on Monday it is investigating Portland Public Schools over alleged racial discrimination tied to its Center for Black Student Excellence. Data from 2021 to 2022 show low reading proficiency and graduation rates among several racial groups. The probe, opened by the Office for Civil Rights, will examine possible violations of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act. The district has not publicly responded to the investigation announced on Monday.

DNA from glove found near Nancy Guthrie home yields no database match

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Authorities said on Tuesday that DNA recovered from a glove found near the Tucson home of missing 84-year-old Nancy Guthrie did not match profiles in the national Combined DNA Index System. The glove resembled one worn by a masked man captured on video before Guthrie’s apparent abduction in late January. IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

His attorney argued the offense occurred more than 40 years ago and that he would likely

From Lucknow to leading NASA's flagship space telescopes

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

When NASA released a personal account on Wednesday by Indian American astrophysicist Hashima Hasan, it traced an extraordinary journey that began in Lucknow in October 1957. As a seven year old, she watched Sputnik streak across the dawn sky and imagined a future in space science. That dream led her to a doctorate in theoretical nuclear physics from the University of Oxford in 1976 and, eventually, to the United States in 1985.

At the Space Telescope Science Institute in Baltimore, Hasan developed Telescope Image Modelling software that proved critical after the launch of the Hubble Space Telescope. The tool helped scientists diagnose and monitor the telescope's spherical aberration and maintain focus until a corrective servicing mission was designed. She later served as program scientist for Hubble and played a leading role in the development of the James Webb Space Telescope, guiding early technology work and international negotiations over the Mid InfraRed Instrument with European and Canadian partners. Hasan called both missions examples of global collaboration and urged young readers to pursue their dreams.

Sheikh Hasina's son questions legality of Awami League ban

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

Sajeeb Wazed, son of Bangladesh's former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, challenged the legality of an ordinance used to ban the Awami League. He said the interim government amended the Anti-Terrorism Act to grant itself authority to prohibit political parties and issued S.R.O. 137Ain/2025. Wazed cited Article 93(2) of the Constitution, noting the ordinance must be presented to Parliament within 30 days to remain valid. He warned that parliamentary endorsement could entrench the ban and normalize the use of anti-terrorism law against political parties. Conversely, allowing the ordinance to lapse would signal a return to a rights-compatible framework and restore space for pluralistic party competition.

Trump administration advances Saudi nuclear pact without traditional safeguards

IndoUS Tribune Newsdesk

The Trump administration has informed Congress it is pursuing a civil nuclear agreement with Saudi Arabia that removes long-standing non-proliferation safeguards, according to a document reviewed by Reuters on Thursday.

The draft 123 Agreement would allow the kingdom to develop nuclear reactors for civilian purposes while placing U.S. industry at the core of the program. Critics warn that the pact opens the door for uranium enrichment and spent fuel reprocessing, potential pathways to weapons, and lacks the Additional Protocol granting the International Atomic Energy Agency broad oversight and snap inspections.

Arms control experts urge Congress to scrutinize the deal carefully. Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman has previously stated the kingdom would pursue nuclear weapons if Iran did. The administration could formally submit the agreement to Congress as early as next week, after which it would take effect unless both chambers pass resolutions opposing it within 90 days.

NCAA President Charlie Baker has expressed support for expansion, noting potential financial benefits through the current television agreement with CBS and Warner Bros. Discovery, which runs through 2032. Women's teams recently began receiving financial units for tournament participation, with additional incentives approved in January.

अरुणाचल प्रदेश की आराधना यात्रा का तीसरा पड़ाव

तारा तारिणी मंदिर

IndoUS Tribune की Temples of Arunachal Yatra का तीसरा पड़ाव हमें पूर्वोत्तर की सीमाओं से आगे

भारत की शक्ति-परंपरा के एक और महान धाम तक ले आता है—ओडिशा के गंजाम जिले की कुमारी पहाड़ियों पर अवस्थित तारा तारिणी मंदिर। यह पावन शक्तिपीठ न केवल प्राचीन आस्था का केंद्र है, बल्कि भारतीय सांस्कृतिक निरंतरता, समुद्री परंपरा और देवी-उपासना की जीवंत विरासत का प्रतीक भी है। यहाँ आकर यह अनुभव होता है कि भारत की आध्यात्मिक यात्रा किसी एक भूभाग तक सीमित नहीं, बल्कि संपूर्ण राष्ट्र की चेतना को एक सूत्र में पिरोती है।

यह मंदिर दक्षिण ओडिशा के पुरुषोत्तमपुर के निकट, रुषिकुल्या नदी के तट पर स्थित कुमारी पर्वत पर विराजमान है। लगभग 32 किलोमीटर दूर स्थित ब्रह्मपुर—जिसे ओडिया संस्कृति का प्रमुख केंद्र माना जाता है—से यहाँ पहुँचा जा सकता है। 999 सीढ़ियाँ चढ़कर भक्त माँ के दर्शन करते हैं; साथ ही अब रोपवे और मोटरमार्ग की सुविधा भी उपलब्ध है। पर्वत की चोटी से रुषिकुल्या नदी और हरित वादियों का दृश्य मन को आध्यात्मिक शांति से भर देता है।

शक्तिपीठ के रूप में महिमा

तारा तारिणी को भारत के प्राचीन शक्तिपीठों में से एक माना जाता है। पौराणिक मान्यता के अनुसार, जब दक्ष यज्ञ के उपरान्त देवी सती ने आत्माहुति दी और भगवान शिव उनके विखंडित शरीर को लेकर तांडव करने लगे, तब भगवान विष्णु ने सुदर्शन चक्र से सती के अंगों को विभाजित किया। जहाँ-जहाँ वे अंग गिरे, वहाँ शक्तिपीठ स्थापित हुए। मान्यता है कि सती के वक्षस्थल (स्तन) कुमारी पहाड़ियों पर गिरे और यह स्थान 'स्तनपीठ' के रूप में विख्यात हुआ।

देवी तारा और तारिणी को आदि शक्ति का स्वरूप माना जाता है। वे शक्ति, करुणा और रक्षण की प्रतीक हैं। दक्षिण ओडिशा के अधिकांश लोग इन्हें अपनी इष्टदेवी के रूप में पूजते हैं।

तांत्रिक, बौद्ध और जैन साहित्य में उल्लेख

तारा की उपासना का उल्लेख ब्रह्मांड पुराण के ललितोपाख्यान में मिलता है, जहाँ उन्हें जल-नियंत्रण और नाविकों की अधिष्ठात्री देवी बताया गया है। तांत्रिक परंपरा में वे 'नौकेश्वरी'—नावों की स्वामिनी—मानी जाती हैं, जो भक्तों को जीवन-सागर से पार लगाती हैं।

बौद्ध परंपरा में तारा को बुद्धों और बोधिसत्त्वों की माता के रूप में प्रतिष्ठित किया गया है, जबकि जैन साहित्य में भी उनका उल्लेख मिलता है। इस प्रकार तारा-तारिणी की उपासना भारतीय धार्मिक परंपराओं के विविध आयामों को समेटे हुए है।

समुद्री व्यापार और देवी की आराधना

प्राचीन काल में रुषिकुल्या नदी का मुहाना समुद्री व्यापार का महत्वपूर्ण केंद्र था। व्यापारी समुद्री यात्रा पर निकलने से पूर्व तारा तारिणी की पूजा करते थे। लोककथा के अनुसार, एक व्यापारी जब समुद्र में संकट में घिर गया, तो उसने माँ से प्रार्थना की और सुरक्षित लौट आया। कृतज्ञता स्वरूप उसने अपनी समस्त आय देवी को अर्पित कर दी। इस कथा ने तारा तारिणी को समुद्री यात्रियों की संरक्षिका देवी के रूप में प्रतिष्ठित किया।

लोककथाएँ और किंवदंतियाँ

मंदिर से जुड़ी अनेक लोककथाएँ प्रचलित हैं। एक कथा के अनुसार, देवी ने दो बालिकाओं के रूप में प्रकट होकर एक निसंतान दंपति को आशीर्वाद दिया और अंततः रत्न गिरि पर्वत पर अपने दिव्य स्वरूप में स्थापित हुईं। एक अन्य कथा में वे राजा के लोभ से बचने हेतु नदी में विलीन हो जाती हैं और पत्थर-प्रतिमाओं के रूप में प्रकट होती हैं।

ऐतिहासिक परंपरा के अनुसार, 18वीं शताब्दी के उत्तरार्ध में एक ब्राह्मण भक्त बसु प्रहराज ने मंदिर का निर्माण/पुनर्निर्माण कराया। बाद में स्थानीय दानदाताओं और समाज-सुधारकों के प्रयासों से मंदिर का विस्तार हुआ तथा पशुबलि की परंपरा समाप्त की गई।

पर्व और परंपराएँ

चैत्र मास के मंगलवार विशेष रूप से शुभ माने जाते हैं। इस अवधि में हजारों श्रद्धालु दर्शन के लिए पहुँचते हैं। प्रथम संतान के मुण्डन संस्कार की परंपरा यहाँ अत्यंत

लोकप्रिय है। स्वर्ण एवं रजत आभूषणों से अलंकृत देवी की दो पाषाण प्रतिमाएँ मुख्य गर्भगृह में प्रतिष्ठित हैं, जिनके अतिरिक्त उत्सवों के लिए चल-प्रतिमाएँ भी स्थापित हैं।

निष्कर्ष: शक्ति-परंपरा से संवाद की यात्रा

IndoUS Tribune की इस आध्यात्मिक यात्रा का तीसरा पड़ाव हमें यह अनुभव कराता है कि शक्ति-उपासना केवल एक धार्मिक परंपरा नहीं, बल्कि भारतीय समाज की सांस्कृतिक, ऐतिहासिक और भावनात्मक धारा का अभिन्न अंग है। तारा तारिणी मंदिर में आस्था, लोककथाएँ, समुद्री इतिहास और तांत्रिक साधना एक साथ मिलकर भारत की

बहुरंगी आध्यात्मिक चेतना को प्रकट करती हैं।

अब हमारी Temples of Arunachal Yatra

अपने अंतिम और विशेष पड़ाव की ओर अग्रसर है—अरुणाचल प्रदेश में स्थित नक्सा पर्वत मंदिर के खंडहर (Khandahar), जहाँ इतिहास के मौन पत्थर हमें प्राचीन सभ्यता की एक और अनकही कथा सुनाएँगे।

हमारे साथ जुड़े रहिए—क्योंकि यह यात्रा केवल मंदिरों की नहीं, बल्कि भारत की सनातन आत्मा को समझने और उससे संवाद करने की यात्रा है।

यही शुभकामना।

राजा परीक्षित और कलियुग

धर्म, समय और मानव चेतना का शाश्वत संदेश

भारतीय आध्यात्मिक परंपरा में पुराण कथाएँ केवल धार्मिक आख्यान नहीं हैं, बल्कि मानव जीवन के गहन मनोवैज्ञानिक, नैतिक और सामाजिक सत्य को प्रकट करने वाले दर्पण हैं। राजा परीक्षित की कथा इसी श्रेणी में आती है। यह कथा हमें बताती है कि धर्म का संरक्षण केवल राजाओं या ऋषियों का दायित्व नहीं, बल्कि प्रत्येक मनुष्य की चेतना और आचरण पर निर्भर है।

राजा परीक्षित, महान धनुर्धर अर्जुन के पौत्र और वीर अभिमन्यु के पुत्र थे। पांडवों के स्वगारीहण के पश्चात उन्होंने धर्म, न्याय और सत्य के आधार पर राज्य चलाया। वे आदर्श शासक थे—प्रजा सुखी थी, यज्ञ सम्पन्न हुए, और समाज में व्यवस्था थी। किंतु इतिहास और धर्मग्रंथ बार-बार स्मरण कराते हैं कि समय का चक्र परिवर्तनशील है। जैसे ही भगवान श्रीकृष्ण पृथ्वी से प्रस्थान करते हैं, द्वारक युग समाप्त होता है और कलियुग का आरंभ होता है—एक ऐसा युग जिसमें धर्म के चार स्तंभों में से केवल सत्य शेष रह जाता है।

धर्म और पृथ्वी का संवाद: युग परिवर्तन का प्रतीक

दिव्यजय के दौरान राजा परीक्षित ने एक अद्भुत दृश्य देखा—एक बैल (धर्म) एक पैर पर खड़ा था और एक गाय (पृथ्वी) विलाप कर रही थी। धर्म के तीन पैर—दया, तप और पवित्रता—टूट चुके थे। यह दृश्य केवल प्रतीकात्मक नहीं था; यह समाज में घटते नैतिक मूल्यों का चित्रण था। पृथ्वी माता का शोक इस बात का प्रतीक था कि जब ईश्वर की चेतना से मानव दूर हो जाता है, तब सत्य, करुणा और सदाचार क्षीण होने लगते हैं।

कलियुग का प्रवेश और अधर्म के निवास स्थान

राजा ने देखा कि एक क्रूर व्यक्ति गाय और बैल को पीड़ित कर रहा है। वह स्वयं को कलियुग बताता है। राजा उसे राज्य से निकालना चाहते हैं, किंतु वह निवास स्थान की प्रार्थना करता है। अंततः राजा परीक्षित उसे पाँच स्थान देते हैं—जुआ, मद्यपान, अनैतिक संबंध, हिंसा और अन्यायपूर्ण धन (स्वर्ण)। यह निर्णय गहन प्रतीकात्मक अर्थ रखता है: जहाँ लोभ, वासना, हिंसा और असत्य का वास है, वहीं कलियुग सक्रिय होता है।

यहाँ एक महत्वपूर्ण आध्यात्मिक सत्य प्रकट होता है—कलियुग बाहरी शक्ति नहीं, बल्कि मानव प्रवृत्तियों में प्रवेश करने वाली मानसिक अवस्था है।

स्वर्ण का मोह और विवेक का क्षय

कलियुग को स्वर्ण में स्थान देने के पश्चात राजा परीक्षित एक स्वर्ण मुकुट धारण करते हैं। यह मुकुट पूर्वकाल से खजाने में रखा था और पांडवों ने उसे कभी नहीं पहना। स्वर्ण यहाँ केवल धातु नहीं, बल्कि लोभ और अहंकार का प्रतीक है। मुकुट धारण करते ही राजा की बुद्धि भ्रमित हो

जाती है और वे शिकार के लिए निकल पड़ते हैं—एक ऐसा कार्य जो उनके स्वभाव के विपरीत था। यह प्रसंग बताता है कि अनैतिक धन और अहंकार मनुष्य की विवेक शक्ति को क्षीण कर देते हैं।

क्रोध का क्षण और जीवन परिवर्तन

वन में प्यासे और थके हुए राजा एक तपस्वी ऋषि की कुटिया पहुँचते हैं। ऋषि समाधि में लीन होते हैं और उत्तर नहीं दे पाते। क्रोध में आकर राजा मृत सर्प को उनके गले में डाल देते हैं। यह क्षणिक क्रोध जीवन की दिशा बदल देता है। ऋषि पुत्र द्वारा दिया गया श्राप—सातवें दिन तक्षक नाग के दंश से मृत्यु—राजा के जीवन का निर्णायक मोड़ बन जाता है।

यह घटना बताती है कि क्रोध एक क्षणिक प्रतिक्रिया है, किंतु उसके परिणाम दीर्घकालिक और गंभीर हो सकते हैं।

पश्चाताप से वैराग्य तक

जब राजा मुकुट उतारते हैं, उनका विवेक लौट आता है।

वे अपने अपराध पर पश्चाताप करते हैं और श्राप को ईश्वर की कृपा मानते हैं। वे राज्य त्याग कर गंगा तट पर चले जाते हैं और जीवन के अंतिम सात दिनों को ईश्वर स्मरण और ज्ञान प्राप्ति में समर्पित करने का संकल्प लेते हैं। यह परिवर्तन दर्शाता है कि पश्चाताप आत्मशुद्धि का प्रथम चरण है।

मृत्यु का प्रश्न और जीवन का उत्तर

गंगा तट पर एकत्रित ऋषियों के समक्ष राजा एक सार्वभौमिक प्रश्न रखते हैं—मृत्यु समीप होने पर मनुष्य को क्या करना चाहिए? यह प्रश्न केवल परीक्षित का नहीं, बल्कि प्रत्येक मानव का है। उसी समय महान ज्ञानी शुकदेव प्रकट होते हैं और सात दिनों तक श्रीमद्भागवत कथा का उपदेश देते हैं। कथा के माध्यम से भक्ति, ज्ञान और वैराग्य का मार्ग स्पष्ट होता है। राजा परीक्षित को सात दिन मिले; हमें यह भी ज्ञात नहीं कि हमारे पास कितना समय है। यही इस कथा का आध्यात्मिक केंद्र है।

कलियुग का महान वरदान

यद्यपि कलियुग को अधर्म का युग कहा जाता है, फिर भी

इसमें एक महान वरदान है—भगवान के नाम का स्मरण ही मुक्ति का साधन है। पूर्व युगों में कठोर तप, यज्ञ और दीर्घ साधनाएँ आवश्यक थीं; कलियुग में श्रद्धा और नामस्मरण पर्याप्त हैं।

आधुनिक जीवन में कथा की प्रासंगिकता

आज का समाज तकनीकी प्रगति के शिखर पर है, परन्तु मानसिक अशांति, लोभ, हिंसा और नैतिक संकट भी बढ़ रहे हैं। जुआ अब डिजिटल प्लेटफॉर्म पर है, मद्यपान सामाजिक स्वीकृति पा चुका है, हिंसा विचारों में प्रवेश कर चुकी है और अनैतिक धन को सफलता का प्रतीक समझा जाता है। इस संदर्भ में राजा परीक्षित की कथा हमें चेतावनी देती है कि कलियुग बाहरी समय नहीं, बल्कि आंतरिक चेतना की अवस्था है।

जीवन के लिए धार्मिक संदेश

यह कथा हमें सिखाती है कि:

- ▶ सत्य और करुणा धर्म के आधार हैं
- ▶ लोभ विवेक को नष्ट करता है
- ▶ क्रोध निर्णय शक्ति को भ्रष्ट करता है
- ▶ संतों का और ज्ञान का सम्मान आवश्यक है
- ▶ मृत्यु का स्मरण जीवन को सार्थक बनाता है
- ▶ नामस्मरण और सत्संग आत्मशुद्धि का सरल मार्ग है

निष्कर्ष: धर्म का संरक्षण भीतर से आरम्भ होता है

राजा परीक्षित की कथा हमें यह समझाती है कि मनुष्य त्रुटि कर सकता है, परन्तु पश्चाताप, ज्ञान और भक्ति उसे पुनः प्रकाश की ओर ले जा सकते हैं। धर्म का पतन बाहर से नहीं होता; वह मनुष्य के भीतर से क्षीण होता है। उसी प्रकार धर्म का पुनर्जागरण भी भीतर से ही आरम्भ होता है।

कलियुग में यदि मनुष्य सत्य, करुणा और ईश्वर स्मरण को जीवन में स्थापित कर ले, तो वही युग उसके लिए मुक्ति का मार्ग बन सकता है।

धर्म की रक्षा शस्त्र से नहीं, चरित्र से होती है। और कलियुग में—हरि नाम ही सबसे सरल साधना है।

India-Israel AI-Cybersecurity connect in Palo Alto highlights growing startup collaboration

By: Dr. Avi Verma

Reflecting the deepening ties between India and Israel's startup ecosystems, the Consulate General of India in San Francisco and the Consulate General of Israel to the Pacific Northwest, in partnership with VentureDock, hosted the "India-Israel AI-Cybersecurity Connect" in Palo Alto. The event brought together over 130 startup founders, venture capitalists, and industry leaders to discuss emerging trends and challenges in cybersecurity in the era of artificial intelligence.

Consul General Dr. K. Srikar Reddy highlighted the expanding collaboration between the innovation ecosystems of both nations, while briefing participants on preparations for the upcoming AI Impact Summit at Bharat Mandapam in New Delhi, emphasizing India's vision for responsible and transformative AI. Consul General Marco Sermoneta underscored key milestones in the India-Israel partnership and the growing synergy in innovation-driven growth, noting that both countries share a strategic interest in fostering technology-led collaboration.

A keynote by Jay Chaudhry, CEO of Zscaler, delved into the challenges of scaling a cybersecurity startup, offering insights on resilience, leadership, and innovation. A high-level panel featuring Gadi Bashvitz of Bright Security, Glen Chisholm of SYN Ventures, Debanjan Saha of DataRobot, Alice Shaff of Gator Security, and Guru Chahal of Lightspeed Venture Partners, moderated by Raj Judge of Zscaler, explored the transformative shifts reshaping cybersecurity in the age of agentic AI.

The event also included a fireside chat with Oren Zeev of Zeev Ventures, moderated by Gopi Rangan of Sure Ventures, providing perspectives on venture capital strategies and highlighting collaboration opportunities for Indian and Israeli founders. Supported by India's Ministry of External Affairs and the Embassy of India in Washington DC, the gathering reinforced the forward-looking partnership between India and Israel, showcasing a shared commitment to cutting-edge technology and innovation-led growth.

Global Hindu community condemns mockery of sacred beliefs at Plano council meeting

By: Dr. Avi Verma

Outrage is spreading across the global Hindu community after conservative commentator Alex Stein delivered a mocking speech at a recent city council meeting in Plano, appearing in traditional Indian attire and ridiculing sacred Hindu beliefs.

Stein, wearing a yellow kurta and a red tilak on his forehead, addressed the council in what critics described as a caricature of Indian identity. During his remarks, he mocked Hindu reverence for cows, making sarcastic references to cow urine and cow dung as sacred substances.

Several Indian-American residents in attendance reportedly walked out of the meeting in protest as the speech continued.

Videos of the incident quickly circulated across social media platforms, drawing condemnation from Hindu leaders and civil rights advocates in the United States, India, Canada, and the United Kingdom. Community members described the performance as not only offensive but deeply hurtful to practicing Hindus who regard the cow as a sacred symbol of life, sustenance, and non-violence.

The Hindu American Foundation strongly criticized the remarks, calling them "demeaning" and warning that such rhetoric contributes to a climate of hostility toward Hindu Americans. Other advocacy groups said the incident reflects a broader pattern of cultural mockery and religious insensitivity increasingly appearing in public forums.

Leaders from temples and diaspora organizations in cities from Houston to London expressed solidarity with the Plano community, emphasizing that public institutions should be spaces for civic dialogue — not religious ridicule.

The controversy comes amid heightened tensions in parts of Texas over immigration and H-1B visa programs, particularly in suburbs with growing Indian-American populations. Community advocates warn that inflammatory rhetoric about demographic change can embolden public expressions of prejudice.

For many Hindu Americans, the incident is about more than one speech. "When sacred beliefs are mocked in a government setting, it sends a message that our faith is acceptable to target," one community organizer said. "That is why people are upset — not because of satire, but because of disrespect."

As calls grow for local officials to address the matter, Hindu organizations worldwide say they are watching closely — urging civic leaders to reaffirm commitments to religious respect and pluralism

A transformative step toward universal kidney transplants

By: Dr. Avi Verma

A promising breakthrough in transplant science may significantly reduce wait times and expand access to life-saving kidney transplants. Researchers from University of British Columbia in Canada, working in collaboration with Avivo Biomedical, have developed a method that can potentially make donor kidneys universally compatible across blood types.

The findings were published in Nature Biomedical Engineering, a leading peer-reviewed journal in translational medicine.

The challenge: Blood type compatibility in organ transplants

One of the major barriers in kidney transplantation is ABO blood group compatibility. Patients with blood type O, for example, can donate to others but can only receive kidneys from type O donors. Conversely, individuals with type AB can receive from all groups but are rarer donors.

This incompatibility leads to:

- ▶ Longer transplant waiting lists
- ▶ Increased risk of organ rejection
- ▶ Wasted viable donor organs
- ▶ Higher mortality for patients with rare blood types

In many countries, including the United States and Canada, kidney patients can wait years for a compatible donor.

The breakthrough: Converting blood Type A to universal Type O

The research team led by Stephen Withers and Jayachandran Kizhakkedathu developed specialized enzymes capable of removing blood type A antigens from the surface of donor kidneys.

How it works

- ▶ Blood type differences are determined by specific sugar molecules (antigens) present on cell surfaces.

- ▶ Type A kidneys carry A antigens.
- ▶ The engineered enzymes selectively strip these A antigens from the organ tissue.
- ▶ Once removed, the kidney effectively resembles Type O, the universal donor type.

This enzymatic process is performed during normothermic machine perfusion, where a donor kidney is maintained outside the body under near-physiological conditions, allowing treatment before transplantation.

In preclinical testing, researchers demonstrated that treated kidneys showed a dramatic reduction in antibody binding, suggesting they could be transplanted into recipients of different blood types with significantly reduced risk of rejection.

Why this matters

If validated in human clinical trials, this technology could:

- ▶ Expand the donor pool
- ▶ Reduce transplant wait times
- ▶ Improve organ allocation fairness
- ▶ Decrease organ discard rates
- ▶ Save thousands of lives annually

Patients with blood type O—who typically face the longest waiting periods—may particularly benefit.

A step toward more inclusive organ donation

The concept of modifying donor organs rather than suppressing recipient immunity marks a paradigm shift in transplantation science. Instead of intensifying lifelong immunosuppression, this approach addresses incompatibility at its biological source.

While the current research focused on Type A kidneys, future refinements may extend to other blood groups and potentially other organs such as hearts or lungs.

What comes next?

Although the laboratory and ex-vivo perfusion results are highly encouraging, clinical trials in human transplant recipients are still needed before widespread adoption. Regulatory approval, long-term safety data, and cost-effectiveness analyses will determine how quickly this innovation can move from research to routine medical practice.

Experts suggest that if successful, this advancement could represent one of the most important milestones in transplant medicine in decades.

A hopeful future for kidney patients

Chronic kidney disease affects millions worldwide, and transplantation remains the gold standard treatment for end-stage renal failure. Innovations like this bring hope to patients and families navigating the uncertainty of transplant waitlists.

By potentially making kidneys “universally compatible,” Canadian scientists are moving us closer to a future where biology no longer limits lifesaving care.

Indian imports from US at 0% tariff - many* industrial goods & agricultural products. Examples* provided are dried distillers' grains, red sorghum for animal feed, tree nuts, fresh & processed fruits, soybean oil, wine, spirits. (It seems that grains for animal feed or distillation may be genetically-modified.)

Indian exports to US at 18% general reciprocal tariffs* - textile & apparel, leather & footwear, plastic & rubber, organic chemicals, home decor, artisanal products, some machinery.

Indian exports to US at 0% tariffs - generic pharma, gems, diamonds, aircraft parts.

Indian exports to US at preferential tariffs - active pharma ingredients (APIs), auto parts.

Improve mutual preferential market access & remove non-tariff barriers. Areas mentioned by US are med-tech, IT, telecom, standards (where appropriate).

Address non-market policies of 3rd parties to protect mutual economic interests. (This seems a vague reference* for dealings with China & Russia.)

India intends to purchase over 5 years $500 billion of US energy, aircrafts, aircraft parts, precious metals, tech, coking/met-coal.

(*Items generally mentioned will be finalized in continuing negotiations, but examples were provided for specificity. A separate Executive Order removed 25% penalty & provided for monitoring of Indian oil trade.)

SPECIAL TOPIC TRUMP ACCOUNTS - UPDATE

Trump Accounts, dubbed Starter IRAs, were launched with OBBBA 2025 (budget) on 7/4/25. People would be able to start making contributions from 7/4/26. Account is opened by filing IRS Form 4547 (note "45" & "47"). Filers for 2025 taxes may include the Form with their 1040 in 2026. Online filing opened after its Super Bowl 2026 ad ran on 2/8/26. Treasury will start confirming Accounts starting May 2026.

Program Website: trumpaccounts.gov/Form4547 www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f4547.pdf

Basic Rules

(i) All US citizen minors with Social Security Numbers are eligible but only newborns between 2025-28 are eligible for the initial $1,000 government funding,

(ii) Up to $5,000/yr can be contributed after-tax after 7/4/26 (inflation-indexed after 2027) by family & friends, including parents' employer benefit up to $2,500/yr (pre-tax),

(iii) Up to $2,500/yr additional (inflation-indexed after 2027) can be contributed by state & local governments, nonprofit 501c3 & charities; however, specific/ defined groups of children must be covered, not just particular children.

This Treasury program will be run through designated financial agents/ institutions. The funds must be invested in qualified low-cost (ER < 10 bps), broad market-cap based US stock index funds until the age 18, but can be invested more broadly after age 18. Earnings will grow tax-deferred. Withdrawals are possible only after age 18 (only exceptions being transfers to 529-ABLE or premature death) & then the normal IRA withdrawal rules apply. So, some qualified withdrawals are possible before 59.5, but penalty-free taxable general withdrawals are allowed after age 59.5.

Media has started using the term "Starter IRAs" because these are possible between ages 0-18 when there is typically no earned income that's needed for IRAs.

As these Accounts will have both after-tax, pre-tax & tax-deferred money, taxation of withdrawals would be a bit complicated. Ordinary taxes will apply after excluding the after-tax proportion of withdrawals.

Michael & Susan DELL have announced $250 in initial funding for up to 25 million kids who aren't eligible for initial funding by the government. Ray & Barbara DALIO will provide $250 for up to 300,000 kids in Connecticut as part of Treasury's push for a 50-state challenge.

Several companies have announced programs to match federal contributions for their employees' eligible kids: BoA/ BAC, Block/XYZ, BoNY-Mellon/ BK, BlackRock/BLK, Charter Communications/CHTR, ICI (fund trade association), J P Morgan Chase/JPM, MasterCard/MA, Robinhood/HOOD, Schwab/SCHW, SoFi, UBER, Visa/V, etc.

Do pheromone perfumes really spark chemistry?

Love is in the air, and it smells like you.

In the endless pursuit of allure, pheromone-inspired perfumes have emerged as one of the most intriguing ways to enhance personal magnetism. Inspired by pheromones, the invisible chemical signals animals release to communicate instinctively, these fragrances offer a provocative idea: can scent amplify attraction and subtly influence perception? While the concept may feel mysterious, the science behind it is surprisingly accessible.

Experts note that most perfumes do not contain actual human pheromones.

Instead, these fragrances work with your natural body chemistry to create a unique and subtle aura. The effect is not about copying biology; it's about amplifying individuality. A "skin scent," which lies close to the body, can be particularly effective. Its intimate warmth acts as a personal signature, enhancing appeal without being overpowering, and it can also serve as a base for layering additional fragrances.

Pheromone-inspired perfumes often fall into three categories: floral, musky, and unisex blends. Floral musk fragrances are delicate yet enveloping, combining soft floral notes with warm, comforting undertones. These scents feel inviting, cozy, and effortlessly alluring, ideal for both day and evening wear. Minimalist musky options focus on a single note, enhancing the natural scent of the wearer and layering beautifully with other fragrances. They offer a soft, personal warmth that can leave a lingering impression. Single-note ambers or woody blends evoke a subtle, magnetic effect, often reminiscent of cedarwood or soft musk, creating an understated, timeless allure that draws attention without trying too hard.

The appeal of pheromone perfumes lies not in instant seduction but in enhancing one's personal chemistry. They encourage a quiet confidence, an intangible magnetism that resonates differently with each wearer. Whether for a lively evening out or a quiet night in, these fragrances provide a sensory way to express individuality, experiment with attraction, and explore the subtle power of scent. In the end, pheromone perfumes remind us that allure is personal, layered, and as much about presence as fragrance, a gentle yet effective way to let your own natural charm shine.
